Congressman Steve King (R-IA) today made the following statement regarding President Barack Obama's visit to Iowa on Thursday.

"I want to thank President Obama for coming to Iowa, and I welcome him back to the Midwest. We always look forward to seeing Air Force One on Iowa soil. Anytime the sitting President of the United States visits your state, it is a good thing. President Obama recognizes that Iowa represents the heartland of America, and I commend him for his interest in our state."
