

This Thursday at noon, Congressman Steve King will join his Republican colleagues, as well as Americans from across the nation who seek to have their voices heard on the health care debate, for a House Call on Washington.

Read more below