

King Statement on Vote Against Continuing Resolution

Thursday, September 22, 2011

Washington, D.C.- Congressman Steve King (R-IA) released the following video statement discussing his vote against the continuing resolution that was considered by the House of Representatives last night.

"The majority of Republicans who voted 'No' on the continuing resolution voted 'No' because it spends too much money...we will be able to provide those $3.65 billion in disaster funding that was part of the bill, but we're going to find the offsets. If you need to find some money for something that is important, and that is disaster relief, you need to take it from the fund of something that is less important."
