

King Receives 'Standing Up for America's Seniors' Award

Thursday, October 20, 2011

Honored by Grassroots Organization RetireSafe

Sioux City, IA - Congressman Steve King (R-IA) was recognized yesterday by the organization RetireSafe for his ongoing commitment to the interests of seniors. RetireSafe is a grassroots organization that advocates and educates on behalf of America's seniors on issues regarding Social Security, Medicare, health and financial well being.

(Left to Right): Al Cors, Troy Arends, Brenda Winkler and Sister Janet Schumacher present 'Standing Up for America's Seniors' Award to Congressman Steve King

King Receives 'Standing Up for America's Seniors' Award

Thursday, October 20, 2011

"I'm pleased to accept the 'Standing up for America's Seniors' Award," said Congressman Steve King. "RetireSafe realizes that one of the biggest threats to senior health care is ObamaCare because of the significant negative impact it will have on affordable Medicare. I appreciate being recognized for my effort to repeal the law."

According to RetireSafe, the 'Standing Up for America's Senior's' Award "commemorates elected officials' leadership in standing up for seniors through their policy choices and through their actions in the community. In Congress, these members have opposed harmful cuts, limits to access, and other moves that would increase healthcare costs for seniors in the Medicare program."

###