

Washington, DC - Congressman Steve King released video of the speech he gave today before the 2012 Conservative Political Action Conference (CPAC). King joined other national conservative leaders in addressing the attendees of the national, three day conference. King's speech focused on the growth of the government's reach into Americans' everyday lives.

"I want my liberty back!" said King. "How did a nation born of freedom and liberty lose its freedom and liberty? How does a nation that's blessed by an extraordinary supply of American Exceptionalism submit, inch by creeping inch, to the totalitarian state that's descending upon us?"

###